Paranormal Experiences

In this world, we are involved in many activities, and we rarely seem to think about the hidden things that are truly a part of this world and our very lives. In Ephesians 6:10-17, we are reminded that our struggle is not against flesh and blood.

The Armor of God

10Finally, be strong in the Lord and in the strength of His might. 11Put on the full armor of God, so that you will be able to stand firm against the schemes of the devil. 12For our struggle is not against [f]flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the powers, against the world forces of this darkness, against the spiritual forces of wickedness in the heavenly places. 13Therefore, take up the full armor of God, so that you will be able to resist on the evil day, and having done everything, to stand firm. 14Stand firm therefore, having belted your waist with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, 15and having strapped on your feet the preparation of the gospel of peace; 16[g]in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming arrows of the evil one. 17And take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

We've spoken many times of ghosts, aliens, etc., those of which we consider the paranormal, but do we ever consider the evil that is around us in an overt way? Those of us who continue to read from the alternative news are shown articles that are hidden from us by the Main Stream Media. A lot of the alternative news sites are listed at the bottom of this newsletter. News Links

Growing up in the 1950s and '60s, I had no idea just how sheltered my life was. I was going to church 3 times a week, the family had dinner together, we walked to school and back home, we rode our bikes without helmets and without knee and elbow pads. Did we hurt ourselves? Yes, we did, but we got over it and learned fast not to do that again. We tried things and learned. We had no Gameboy, cellphone, computer, etc., to occupy our time. We got outside and used our imaginations and played. We were not aware of the evil that was around us.

Going into the grocery stores, we would see a thumb board with pictures of children who were missing. Milk cartons had pictures of children whose parents were looking for them. In my young mind, the evil that is on constant display was not around me. Governments lying and cheating. Space agencies lying about what they saw. In my way of thinking, to be in the government, a person had to have unassailable character. Which makes me wonder why they would want to be tarnished by being a part of the government, knowing about the lying and cheating. Until recently I did not know the terrible evil activities that our elected officials engaged in. Instead of telling you, I'll let you look it up. I'll give you four references to begin your own searching.

Reading these sites may open your eyes to some of the evil that is around us, as it did mine. Also, there are many more sites to read and think about.

Hypnosis

I talked a lot about hypnosis in these newsletters. While my main focus has been on QHHT as developed by Dolores Cannon, there are many, many other avenues of hypnosis that I have not touched upon that may help others have a better life.

In most cases, it is not necessary to go to a professional hypnotist to get help with a problem or situation, most of these problems may go away with self-hypnosis. The client, acting as the hypnotist, hypnotizes themselves. The beauty of being both client and practitioner is that it can be done in their own home, in a quiet room for about twenty to thirty minutes. Read “Self-Hypnosis” by Gil Boyne.

The requirement for a professional hypnotist is when there are questions to be asked of the unconscious mind. In self-hypnosis, the client will have fixed in their mind the ONE intention that they want help with. In a professional setting, a list of questions are brought to the session and after the client is led into hypnosis, the questions can be asked of the unconscious mind and the client will answer the questions. The hypnotist does not answer the questions but may dive deeper into the answers that were given and ask more questions to bring more light into what the client is seeking.

Below is a story of a child being hypnotized by his mother, although the mother nor the doctor recognized it as being hypnosis.

Hypnosis for Children

By Louise Watts

One day, a little boy living in Germany in the eighteenth century had to undergo a serious operation to remove a tumor that was growing on his head. In the absence of any anesthesia, the procedure would be a risky one. Before and during the operation, the little boy's mother held his hand tightly and told him a story so vivid and so fantastic that the little boy was completely engrossed. The surgery was a success and throughout the operation the little boy had felt no great discomfort whatsoever, as his mind had been so completely focused on his mother's amazing story. That little boy was Jacob Grimm, and the story was Snow White.

Using hypnosis with children is not a new phenomenon - there are references in both the Old and New Testaments describing children responding to treatments using suggestion and faith. It is simply that knowledge regarding this powerful therapy is fairly limited amongst the general public and many medical professionals alike.

Unfortunately, there are still many misconceptions that children hold about hypnosis - some of these come from the parents, but in the majority of cases, television is responsible. An example can be found in the Disney film, Aladdin, which depicts an evil sorcerer using hypnosis to "magically" make his victims obey his commands. However, more often than not, children are drawn to the "mysticism" of hypnosis, and any fears and misconceptions can be corrected before the start of each session.

It is fairly well known amongst hypnotherapists that children are excellent hypnotic subjects. As adults, we lose much of our ability to fantasize and daydream - something children are experts at. Up until around 10 years old, children have little distinction between fantasy and reality, and can usually create imaginative stories and tales with ease. Their imaginative capabilities are, therefore, incredibly useful when it comes to using hypnosis to help a wide range of problems.

Our minds are made up of the conscious mind (logical, rational) and subconscious mind (emotion, behavior), which are separated by a kind of gatekeeper called the Conscious Critical Faculty (CCF). The CCF filters out anything unwanted that it perceives might harm us (although sometimes it also gets it wrong and filters out the good things!). However, children don't develop the CCF until between 10 and 12 years. As a result, up to this age they accept everything at face value and their belief systems are very susceptible to suggestion.

Think of the situation whereby a child has fallen over and hurt their knee - the mother calms them by giving them a "healing kiss" and, as if by magic, the child's knee automatically begins to feel better. This is an example of waking hypnosis being used by a mother, whether she consciously realizes it or not.

In children over 12 years old, behavioral change can still take place, as the beauty of hypnotherapy as a treatment method is that it bypasses the CCF and communicates directly with the subconscious, that is, the part of the mind responsible for the behavior or symptom in the first place.

As a rule, hypnosis will generally not be effective with children under the age of 5. This is due to the inability to build the necessary rapport, as well as the fact that children of this age prefer not to close their eyes or sit still for long periods of time.

When we consider that many emotional problems we suffer from as adults have their root in childhood experiences and environment, it makes sense to ensure our children's issues are dealt with as and when they arise. As a child's mind is not fully developed, they believe that anything bad that happens is somehow their fault in one way or another: the father who leaves home, the mother who pays them no attention, the child who does badly in their school grades.

Some examples of the way hypnosis can help children and adolescents are:

- Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD)
- Lack of self-esteem
- Learning difficulties, including dyslexia
- Destructive behavior
- Fears and phobias, particularly injections or visiting the dentist
- Habits, including bedwetting and thumb sucking
- Chronic pain
- Weight control
- Relationship problems, perhaps with a step-parent or sibling

The benefits of hypnotherapy don't just end at when the child begins feeling better. Self-hypnosis techniques can be taught to both parents and children alike and children can be taught to express themselves, either verbally, or through creative methods, such as drawing or writing. Hypnosis works by empowering the child, rather than taking any control away from them, by allowing them to develop the necessarily skills to deal with any difficulties they may face in the future.

Why parents are the world's best hypnotists

By Gil Boyne

A brilliant psychiatrist, R.D. Laing, in his book called, The Politics of the Family, wrote "the clinical hypnotherapist usually knows what he is doing. The family hypnotherapist rarely does." That means simply, the parent's attitudes, statements, labels, directions and instructions are as influential on the child as the hypnotist's suggestions and directions are to someone in a deep hypnotic trance.

An example is a young child, three or four years old, who exhibits a little shyness whenever a strange person comes into the house. She clings to mother's skirt and mother says, "she is such a shy child, and I don't know why." That is a label; it says, "whenever you meet a new person, you act in this way, which expresses your shyness". That is a conditioning and a label. Another way is to berate and scold the child, "you shouldn't be like that, you should smile and say hello,".

"You should, you should, why don't you, you're doing the wrong thing", which strongly emphasizes the behavior. And the child says, "but I can't help it, Mama".

Parents must set boundaries and limits and avoid attributions such as "you are a bad boy". Or telling them what they can't do. When the child brings home a report card with a poor mark in spelling and is asked, "why can't you spell?" it is heard by the child as "you can't spell, tell me why". The child can only answer? "I don't know."

Once a person has gone through school and achieved a rudimentary education, there is no such thing as being the world's worst speller. There are only people who believe that they can't spell."

Many clients have told me, "I am the world's worst speller". And I say, "many others before you have told me they hold that title; suppose I told you it is just a belief? Then, I ask, "do you read the newspapers?". They respond, "Yes." Do you read books? "Yes". Do you understand what you are reading? "Yes". "Are you aware that you are visually photographing the correct spelling of all the words that you believe you can't spell? Yet, each time you write them, you misspell them. Do you understand it is only a belief? Once a person has gone through school and achieved a rudimentary education, there is no such thing as being the world's worst speller. There are only people who believe that they can't spell."

One of my earliest therapy films show a man who worked as a respiratory therapist. He was one who said he was the "world's worst speller". In the first session, I worked with him in front the class and after an hour of hypnotherapy, I said to him "when I count to three you will be the world's best speller." I said, "I am going to have the people in the class give you words to spell, and you can spell every one of them perfectly."

He was hypnotized the entire time and I said to him "open your eyes."

I turned to the class, and I said "raise your hand if you have a word for him to spell. The class gave him difficult words to spell, and he rattled them off without any hesitation. He spelled 24 words quickly with only one mistake. That was the transformation that told him, "I have been suffering from the delusion that I am the world's worst speller". Because he heard himself spell words instantly that he had previously believed he couldn't spell. You see, beliefs can create an imprisoned mind.

There is a portion of the mind that critically examines incoming ideas for their rational content and for the ability to link with previously accepted and held ideas. It's been named the Conscious Critical Faculty of the conscious mind. However, we have learned that the Conscious Critical Faculty is not fully operational until about age of eleven or twelve. Prior to that time and depending upon the source of the ideas, we tend to accept many ideas uncritically, including negative ones.

There are five principles that stimulate the acceptance of ideas at a subconscious level...

1) An idea presented by an authority figure.

This is anyone that we consider to be smarter, wiser or more powerful than we are.

2) An idea presented with strong emotional content attached to it.

When an adult shouts at the child in anger “you will never amount to anything”, “who would want to marry someone like you” and on and so on. The desire of the child is to find the love, affection and approval of the parent and all critical expression is felt as a withdrawing of approval and a diminishing of love. Some parents even say, “Mommy won’t love you if you keep doing that”, “Mommy won’t love you anymore if you keep wetting the bed” or whatever it might be. The Conscious Critical Faculty is not functional in the young child to rationally analyze these ideas.

3) Ideas that are reinforced from multiple sources and heard repetitively

...first from the family members and then from other relatives, then from friends, over and over again, until it becomes continuously self-reinforcing and people say, “I can’t help it, this is the way I have always been” or “this is the way I am,” which means “my behavior can never be changed for this is how I am.” This belief denies the possibility or potential for change.

4) Identification with an ethnic group, a racial group, a national group, members of the family or any other kind of a group.

Who does the child identify with? Especially when they’re told such things as, “you are just like your father, he always makes excuses” or, “I know you can’t help it, you’re Irish and all the Irish men love their whisky. Soon it is internalized as “I can’t help it, I am Irish and, etc. “I can’t help it, I am Russian, and Russians have great tempers, or Italian men are always very jealous of their wives”. The Italian child who hears again and again that Italians are subject to angry fits of temper accepts it as his permission to have great fits of temper. (Just like Dad)

5) Identification with emotionally significant figures

Think of the child that wasn’t learning to spell, and when he shows the report card to the father who is very critical and asks in an angry tone, “why can’t you learn to spell?” Mother feels sympathy for the child, takes him to the kitchen, gives him a piece of chocolate cake and a glass of milk and says, “don’t feel bad dear, you’re like me, I never was a good speller either”. Identification with the mother is accepted as a genetic trait.

Jesus Is the Answer!

Many times, during the last few years that I have been during the QHHT Protocol and Hypnosis, I’ve had the opportunity to talk with many individuals that have had alien abductions or who have had a constant presence with aliens or demons. The best answer I can give these people is to call on the name of Jesus.

When I lived in Arkansas and the shadow people attacked me, several times, while I was in my bed, I called out the name of Jesus, even if it was just a whisper, then they immediately left and disappeared, and I was able to rest peacefully.

Some people do not like the name of Jesus and they resist him. They of course have a choice; they can have a constant attack of the aliens and demons, or they can call on Jesus. It is their choice. I know what works for me. I have called on Him when being attacked or when I release an attached spirit from a client who may have one or many spirits within them.

Growing up, I was taught that the miracles that were performed by the apostles was dead, it couldn't happen anymore after the first century. I never could figure out why in 100 A.D. miraculous healing suddenly stopped, the dead were no longer being raised up. Etc. Etc.

Through study and observation, I no longer believe that to be true. There continues to be miraculous healings and the dead are still being raised and being brought back to life. I do not understand how it is done, but I do know that it continues. Read about the Near-Death experiences of individuals who have been brought back to life and their own miraculous healings that have taken place.

Near-Death Experience Reveals Secret to Rapid Healing

by Nancy Rynes

One of the most miraculous aspects of many near-death experiences is the almost immediate physical healing of the body – generally from that which caused the “death” of the body in the first place. Experiencers have reported going into immediate remission from cancer, others have had tumors disappear, and trauma victims experience accelerated healing of bones, organs, and tissues. Generally, near-death experiencers report overall rapid healing after having experienced time in the afterlife.

Have you wondered how it works, and if it is related to what we call Reiki and other energy-healing modalities?

I too, experienced almost miraculous healing after my NDE, and that healing has led me down a path I never expected to take. The injuries that I sustained during the trauma which eventually led to my NDE were severe: twenty-four bones were broken, each one in multiple places, for a total of well over 100 fractures. I sustained a cracked pelvis, cracked sternum, five broken ribs with associated punctured and collapsed lung, a broken collarbone, one almost-completely shattered vertebrae, and multiple broken vertebrae throughout my neck and lower back. Most of my transverse processes in my spine were cracked as well. I had come terrifyingly close to being a quadriplegic and feared that I would never walk again.

A few days after the accident, while in surgery to repair my spine, I died on the operating table. My resulting NDE was long and involved but near the end of my time in the afterlife, my spiritual guide and mentor, Mari, did something for me which was both sacred and incredibly helpful to my physical self: she performed an energy healing on my soul-body before sending me back to my human life. Within a few weeks, I noticed something unusual happening: rapid physical healing.

At first, I didn't connect Mari's energy work with the accelerated healing of my injuries. But then at four-and-a-half weeks post-accident, my doctor proclaimed that all my casts and braces could come off because my bones were healed. Unbelievable! How could this happen so quickly? The doctor seemed even more surprised than me since he expected I would be in the casts and braces for twelve to sixteen weeks. To have everything off in less than five weeks was a miracle.

That's when I remembered Mari's energy work, which then led me to research the subject and speak with energy practitioners. I came to understand that the physical body, including the brain, emotions, and associated traumas, can be affected positively or negatively by the status of our energy at all levels.

You are energy—not just your soul, but your body as well. It's not that you have energy inside of you, it's that you are energy. That's an important nuance that I had not truly understood before. You are a continuous spectrum of levels of energy from the seemingly-solid physical, to the highest, most ethereal of the spiritual. Some of those levels at the lower end of the energy spectrum coalesce into a form that you know as your physical body. The higher levels of your individual energy state is your spiritual essence.

But how do energy healings, whether done during a spiritual experience like mine or through the skills of a trained practitioner, translate into changes in the physical body and mind?

During a spiritual experience, your soul is immersed in the energy of cosmic-scale love, which causes your soul to resonate at that frequency. As Dr. Gary Schwartz has demonstrated, the spiritual frequencies associated with love also happen to be the ones that have been demonstrated to enhance healing in the physical body. When you are immersed in Divine love, the vibration of that love-energy resonates through the levels from your soul to your physical body. That resonance sets up the conditions for rapid changes at the physical level, including healing.

It's also common for experiencers to report being in an "afterglow" state from their NDE for weeks or months. I certainly was. I lived in a state of almost constant gratitude, another form of love, for a few months after I came back into my body. It's this afterglow, a carryover of divine love, that I believe continued the healing I experienced during my NDE.

A few months after I physically healed, Mari told me that I could do the same thing for others that she had done for me. At first, I didn't believe her. I had never remotely fancied myself an energy worker, and in truth, it took me another couple of years to prepare myself emotionally. When I was ready, though, my teachers appeared: Mari and several celestials coached me through what I needed to know in order to begin. I also studied a few books on the scientific basis of energy work and took related classes. But what seemed to happen is that my spiritual teachers reawakened a skill that I already possessed.

Today I have the ability to work with a client's energy currents in order to promote wholeness, remove blocks that are keeping someone spiritually or emotionally stuck, and bring them back into the vibration of Divine Love. My clients have confirmed that this methodology is successful in helping them make spiritual and emotional breakthroughs, feel more peace, find clarity, and feel energetic again. During some sessions, I receive hints of other lives or direct messages exclusively for the client. Occasionally, angelic or celestial beings come in the room to assist, but I always know that the loving energy comes through me from the highest Divine Source, not from me.

If your own energy needs a little fine-tuning, try this: sit in a place where you won't be disturbed. Think about someone you love or something for which you are deeply grateful. Allow this feeling of love or gratitude to take over. Dive into it as much as you can. Simply immerse yourself in that feeling until it envelopes you completely. Stay in this state for about 10 minutes, just letting the vibration of love engulf you. You are bringing your body into alignment with the energy of love, which is also the energy of wholeness.

The energy of love heals our body and soul. Blockages to this energy can be removed, allowing the love to flow freely again. The more you can spend time in a loving state, the better you'll feel all around.

Return From Death's Door: How God Brought Connie Davis Back to Life

By Ken Hulme and Kristi Watts
The 700 Club

CBN.com – “I looked down on her and her eyes were open and looking at me, but they were not looking. Quite frankly, I was looking at a dead person,” relates Joyce Langston, an intensive care nurse.

Paramedics had brought Connie Davis to the emergency room at the River Regional Medical Center about two hours earlier. There, doctors discovered that she had suffered a pulmonary embolism, a blood clot that hit her lung. The trauma from that clot left Connie without blood pressure or pulse, causing her to code.

“A code is just a term that we use to try to bring someone back, try to revive them,” Joyce says.

Dr J.R. “Bob” Ford, Connie’s attending physician, recalls the details of that day.

“They got her to the emergency room and instituted CPR,” he recalls. “For two hours they continued that CPR. We had a heart doctor, a lung doctor, and different doctors coming in and different people doing the code as we went along. Basically, we never were able to get back a blood pressure, pulse, or any objective evidence that she was breathing or alive.”

That's when Joyce got the call to bring one of the strongest blood pressure medicines to the ER—a medicine of last resort.

"They had not been able to get any pulses, any significant pulses. They had not gotten any blood pressure. She wasn't responding to any of the medicines," Joyce explains.

"I think Connie had the best medical care that you could possibly get," says Dr. Ford. "We went to extreme measures on everything."

Their last official step, in medical terms, was to call the code, or call the time of death.

"She was clinically dead," says Dr. Ford. "They had called the code and pronounced her dead."

What hospital officials didn't realize was that on that Sunday morning, Connie's friends, family, and church had begun to storm heaven on her behalf.

"I just stopped the service and told the church what was going on and said, 'We're going to take a while and intercede for Connie,'" Rev. Mike Fields told his congregation. "We were interceding that God would spare her life. We were praying against death and praying for life."

Meanwhile, the ER doctor came to the waiting room to tell the family the bad news. Still full of faith, Connie's husband, Tommy, made a request.

"I asked him, 'Could we come in and pray before they call it?' He said yes, we could come in and pray," Tommy recalls.

Thelma Russell, Connie's spiritual mom, recalls praying over Connie.

"When I laid my hand on her," says Thelma, "she was cold. I said, 'Lord, with long life you promised to satisfy her. Lord, you said you would do her good and not evil, that you would give her an expected end, that your will for her is to live and not die.' When I saw her gripping Tommy's hand, and mine started shivering like that, I knew that life was coming back into her."

Suddenly, Connie Davis was breathing, and her blood pressure was climbing! Doctors and nurses were stunned—including one nurse who had helped with CPR.

"She said, 'Joyce, I have been doing this 28 years, and I have never seen anything like it. After those people prayed, she got a pulse!"

Adds Dr. Ford, "All I know is the family went in, and when they came out, the nurses went back in there and she was spontaneously starting to breathe again and began feeling blood pressure and a pulse again."

But Dr. Ford knew that Connie still faced an uphill battle. Besides all of her major organs shutting down, Connie showed no signs of brain activity.

"We knew that she was brain dead when she started back," he says. "She had no spontaneous activity. She was on a ventilator. We had to be assisted in her ventilation. She had an aspiration pneumonia, which means she aspirated her stomach contents during CPR. We broke her ribs. Her kidneys went into failure from not enough oxygen. Her GI tract went into bleeding from not enough oxygen. She just had every complication that you can have from a cardiac arrest."

But God wasn't finished working. As the doctors expressed concerns about her complications, family and friends continued to pray—intensely. And God began to do other miracles that very day.

"It was probably 4 o'clock in the afternoon," Joyce recalls. "The respiratory therapist was on the other side of the bed from me and she said, 'Joyce, I think she's sticking her tongue out at me.' I said, 'Donna, she's brain dead, she's not sticking her tongue out at you.' About that time Connie went (shakes head). I went around to the other side of the bed and said, 'Are you awake?' She went (shakes head). I thought, "This just can't be. This is a mistake". But at the time, when she came over, her body temperature was 89.9 degrees. I mean, she was already headed out. Her body was starting to cool off. So, I'm just thinking, This just can't be. This kind of stuff doesn't happen. She could move her legs and everything. No neurological deficits."

Even more amazing, at 3 o'clock the next morning—just 15 hours after she was to be pronounced dead—Connie wrote a note to her husband, asking him to cancel an appointment.

God had done it again! Now, each time Connie would face a medical crisis, Joyce knew exactly where to go.

"At every turn, I would go out there, and there was this sea of people from Connie's church out in the waiting room. I would have to wade through to find Mike and Tommy. 'You all need to be praying. She's bleeding, and we can't get the bleeding stopped,'" Joyce recalls.

At the end of 30 days, Connie Davis left the hospital, and we'd like you to meet her right now—that is Connie playing basketball with her son! God has not only raised her from the dead, in His incredible power and mercy, He restored her—body and mind—to perfect health!

"She's beautiful. She's vibrant. She's full of life and so full of the joy of the Lord," says Joyce. "It is so incredible to contemplate that she is the dead woman that I saw in the emergency room."

"I know that if God can still raise the dead, He can do anything but fail, so it has really, really increased my faith," says Connie's best friend, Toni Ford.

"There's no way to physiologically explain how someone can go two hours in a code and not get blood supply to the brain like she did to her kidneys and things and come out of it just totally neurologically fine," says Dr. Ford. "I've never seen it before. The fact that she came out of that without any damage at all is truly a miracle."

Tommy's faith also grew tremendously. "I heard often that God did a lot of stuff in the Bible back in the days of old," he says, "but now I know that He is a miracle worker, and He does raise people from the dead because He raised my wife from the dead. I was there, and I know."

By this time, you might be curious what was going on from Connie's perspective.

"I didn't hear them say, 'She's dead,'" says Connie, "but I did hear them say, 'This looks bad. She's not going to make it.' When I heard that, I thought, I guess I'm going to die. So I'm lying there and I want to make sure I'm right with the Lord, so I said the sinner's prayer. I said, 'The Lord is my Shepherd.' I said, 'Father, if you really don't need me, I really would like to raise my son.'"

And at several points, Connie began to describe watching the doctors treat her from "outside" her body. Could this have been an "out of body experience?" Connie says she's not sure.

"I just knew I saw myself shaking really hard back and forth, and how that happened I don't know, and foam was coming out my mouth," says Connie. "I wanted to make sure that that happened, I just wasn't thinking of it or dreaming about it. I asked my husband when I got out of the hospital, 'Was I doing that?' and he said, 'Yeah, you did it quite a bit.'"

Of course, no one goes through such an ordeal without it changing their life. For Connie, that means telling others about the amazing grace that saved her.

"I try to tell as many people as I can to accept the Lord while they still have breath in their body," Connie explains. "People need to make a choice now for Christ because you're going to spend eternity somewhere. It could be in hell or in heaven. You're going to be able to hear. You're going to be able to have all your personality. So, if there is anything I can convey to people, it's accept the Lord today."

UPDATE 2005

In looking back, Connie notes several things. First off, she says, "Your spirit does not die." She says her personality and her senses were in tact. She was fully aware of her surroundings and all that was being said and done. She heard doctors' grim words, nurses' routine remarks and even one doctor correcting another's procedure. She says she was trying to joke with them as they opened her eyelids to detect any response. She was saying back to them, "Well, I can see you..." She says this experience has convinced her even more of the reality of eternal existence either in heaven or hell.

Connie is also convinced it simply wasn't her time to go. But the prayers of the saints were a critical part of what brought her back. Her own simple prayer, "Lord, if you don't need me, I would like to raise my son," and the faithful prayers of her interceding husband and church family are what allowed her to return to her body.

She now appreciates that her life has been extended. She is more sympathetic toward others, believes God more and takes Him at His word more easily. She says she catches herself ready to complain about mundane things in life like laundry and remembers that she might not have been here now. She says these thoughts stop the complaints. She is also very humble and doesn't want a spotlight on herself or her experience. She says unequivocally that she didn't "do" this, that she has no great ability to heal or pray as a result of this experience. She loves God and will pray for anyone who needs it because of His love for His people, not because she was resurrected. And if she ever needs to be reminded, her son now 15, will let her know that it's because of him that she's still here. God is letting her raise her son.

Remote Hypnosis Sessions

I do not make any money when someone clicks on the links, and or buys a book. The only money I make is from doing hypnosis.

In the past, I have done two remote sessions over Zoom and one over the cell phone. All three sessions were successful, and the clients benefitted from the sessions. There are many practitioners that I have seen doing hypnosis sessions remotely and I have been asked to do the sessions remotely, which I turned down.

When I took the Quantum Healing Hypnosis Technique class (QHHT) with Dolores Cannon, many years ago, and the Ericksonian Hypnosis Classes with Mike Mandel, both instructors advised to not do hypnosis over any electronic means, cell phone, Zoom, or Skype. However, I also took Candace Craw-Goldman's course Beyond Quantum Healing (BQH) who has no limitations on remote sessions. She was a student of Dolores Cannon's, her first Level 3 Practitioner. The times are changing.

Recently, I took another class from Mike Mandel on HOW to do remote hypnosis sessions over Zoom or Skype. The classes were very informative and straight forward. Based on the classes I've taken; I will resume doing hypnosis sessions remotely.

Mike Mandel is not the only one who now considers remote sessions as a viable alternative to in house sessions, but so also is Candace Craw-Goldman with Beyond Quantum Healing (BQH), Dolores Cannon's first Level 3 QHHT Practitioner. In-Person vs Remote Sessions.

In January 2023 I'll begin doing the remote sessions. Contact me if you have an interest.

I receive no compensation from anything I link to, whether it be articles, websites, books, YouTube Videos or other such thing. I only offer these links as a help to those who are searching for the truth. I only receive compensation when a client comes to me for a QHHT Session. Thank you.

If any of the link's fail, please let me know so that I can fix it. Thank-you. Carl

Newsletter Input - Top

Sometimes, from time to time, we all experience something from the unknown. Our God knows, but we have not a clue as to what it was, and it bewilders us and forces us to do a reality check. We also find that we want to tell someone, anyone, maybe. But who? Do you have a story you want to tell, but do not want to be put on the front stage with all eyes looking at you? Do you get nervous meeting new friends and are fearful that they may think you to be strange and not all “there?” If you would like, please email me with your story. I will read it to see if it has interest for our readers, I may check for spelling and grammar then post it in our newsletter. I can leave your name off if you would like. But I want to hear from our readers.

QHHT Sessions - Top

If you are interested in doing a QHHT session, my current fee is $300 for the entire session. I only do one session per day so that there will be no rush to finish a session before it's natural completion. You will also find that my fees are at the low end of the scale among QHHT® practitioners, to make it more affordable. I'll send you some paperwork to be filled out when we schedule the appointment, then I may send a reminder one or two days prior to the session that will also include my address here in Spring Branch, Texas. Bring the paperwork with you and we can go over it when you get here. A belief in reincarnation is not a requirement for a QHHT® session. Your unconscious mind will take you to the most appropriate time and place in which your questions will be answered.

If you need to call or text me, to ask more questions, I will be more than happy to answer any questions you may have. If the call goes to voice mail, I will call back as soon as I am able. I am retired and hypnosis is the only “work” that I do, so if you need to call or text, do not hesitate. The session can last four to seven hours. This includes a two-hour discussion and a review of the questions you bring with you that you want your unconscious mind to answer, a one-to-two-hour hypnotic session that may include one to three past lives, answers to your questions by your unconscious mind, and a body scan by your unconscious mind. The session is videoed, and an audio file of the session is sent to you via Drop Box.

ABOUT - Top

This newsletter started out as a way to encourage others to meet and tell others of their paranormal experiences. I've also included a lot of my own experiences in the previous newsletters, but now, I believe it is time to include other subjects that will help a person to grow and heal, not only in the mind, but also in the body. After all, isn't that what we all want, to have a healthy mind, body and spirit?

As I research the various topics that I find interesting, I will occasionally dip down into rabbit holes and find nuggets that were completely unexpected. Attending “The Healing Arts Festival & Market”, I also see where people are seeking alternative sources of healing rather than the allopathic medicine in which we have begun to shy away from due to the contraindications associated with their treatments when using questionable pharmaceuticals.

I have found, in my readings, therapies that include frequency, vibration and energy as well as red light therapy. Frequency would be associated with light and sound, as in the Singing Bowls that one may find at the Healing Arts Festival & Market. So, please expect more, and if you believe that I have veered off track and need to come back to center, please let me know. Feedback does help.
